I represent the applicant of the subject matter. I place the following submissions in support of the subject application:

Other Registrations/ acceptance:

Salient features of the subject mark:

The subject mark is an original, honest and unique creation of the Applicant Foundation.

The mark comprises a highly attractive device of the word ‘mithranjali’ depicted in stylized font alongside a circle formed by colourful palms. The said device conveys the idea of unity and growth by mutual help and togetherness. The word MITHRANJALI signifies dedication (Anjali) to friends (mitra). Secondly, the subject mark has the words “apnaride” (conjoined as a single word), depicted in stylized font in black, orange colours lower case letters.

The overall impression created by the mark is highly original, attractive and capable of leaving a lasting impression on the minds of the viewers. The overall depiction of the mark, the unique and attractive colour compositions, the juxtaposition of the different elements etc., make the subject mark highly attractive and capable of leaving a memorable impression on the minds of the consumers. The subject mark has an attractive visual as well as phonetic appeal, which would enable the end consumers to associate the services under the subject mark, exclusively with the Applicant and none else.

Objection under Section 9(1)(b):

The subject mark is not descriptive of the services listed under the application. The mark has no reference whatsoever, to the services listed under the application.

The subject mark is not used by other traders dealing in the same services to define or refer to their services. Therefore, as the subject mark is not common to the trade, its registration would not be prejudicial to the legitimate trade.

Further, no person or entity can make a claim that the registration of the subject mark would deprive them of their legitimate rights over the elements contained in the mark.

It is an accepted principle that in determining the descriptiveness of a mark, the average consumer test is to be employed.

In view of the above factors, I submit that the subject mark is capable of being associated with the applicant and there is no scope for any confusion with the cited mark.

I request the Hon'ble Register to take the enclosed documents on record and wave the objection.

Yours faithfully

A handwritten signature in blue ink, reading "Abhishek Pati". The signature is written in a cursive style with a horizontal line underneath the name.

Attorney for the applicant.
